

There's a simple reason why the evidence clearly shows that the vast majority of investors, when attempting to "go it alone," end up underperforming the returns available to them in the markets – emotions.

In this brief, 3-minute video, learn more about why I regularly say, "Successful investing is 1% intellectual and 99% behavioral."