

Study after study consistently demonstrates that speculative, active management is truly a fool's errand. In this brief video, Dr. David Blake explains why.