

As there continues to be significant speculation in alternative investments today, what about art, automobiles, and other collectibles? Once again, let's learn from what the evidence actually shows.